

I'd like to take a minute to thank all the following people for helping out in various ways with Project CODE and the class. This has been a labor of love for me for almost six years now and it has been a fantastic journey with a few detours along the way. It has taken a divine twist and has picked up steam. I don't want to mix religion up in this too much, but I need to give credit where it's due. Not that I have anything against religion, I am Catholic, but I want this project to be open to all without anyone thinking I am pushing anything or trying to convert folks. I just want to help people learn. I would love it if everyone followed Jesus' teachings, but I respect everyone's decision, or indecision, as it is extremely personal and none of my business. Again, thanx to everyone who has helped, and if I forgot anyone, let me know and I'll add them to the list. In no particular order:

Lisa Philpott - collaborating, supporting, proofreading, being an all-around inspiration and good sponsor

Father Patrick McDonough - encouragement, inspiration

J W Goerlich - mentoring, suggesting changes

Benny Karnes - mentoring, looking at material

Kimber @mzbat Dowsett - mentoring, looking at material

Jon Nichols - looking at material

Joseph Hensley IV - inspiration, ideas

Barbara Oakley, PhD - writing a book on learning and one on teaching and allowing me to use the ideas

Carol Dweck, PhD - writing a book on mindset and allowing me to use the ideas

Doug Gingrich - allowing me to use lecture notes

Bill Deresiewicz - allowing me to use his speech and some ideas

Holy Trinity - inspiration, unlocking doors, creating opportunity, and keeping me on track
